Nuances of a Human Spectrum

"What's past is prologue." If we extend Shakespeare's thought with relation to ourselves, we conclude that the past is prologue to present and future knowledge. Our past is composed of experiences which give and will give us a new perspective and better understanding of people.

When we were less mature, we were aware only of the presence of people, not of the needs of people. Our feelings toward others were governed more by instinct than by intellect: we loved someone because of his good qualities, because of the happiness these good qualities gave us. We never loved someone despite his faults, despite the unhappiness these faults might have given us. Therefore, our love was a selfish love because it felt a need to be fulfilled; it did not know or even wish to know that it could fulfill a need in others. But as we grew we became less dependent upon others. Because we were able to do things for ourselves, we were then able to do things for other people. Still, we saw that natural limitations prevented us from doing all things. Yet we also saw that these shortcomings were no obstacle to love, that other people loved us in spite of them. Thus, we discovered the truth of St. Paul's statement: "love is long-suffering and kind. Love is not jealous, it does not brag, does not get puffed up, does not behave indecently, does not look for its own interests, does not become provoked. It does not keep account of the injury. It does not rejoice over unrighteousness, but rejoices with the truth. It bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things." In short, we learned that when our love fulfilled the need in others, it fulfilled the need in ourselves.

a human spectrum, the motivations behind human behavior. Previously, our vision had been obscured by our selfish love that blinded us to the entire range of colors. Our scope was restricted to clearly-defined superficialities since we did not remove ourselves from ourselves. We may even have hurt someone because our imperfect understanding caused us to overlook the subtleties of his character. But it is from the pain we caused and the pain we felt that we gained understanding and a compassionate, cautious awareness: a positive awareness that does not make us cautious of others for ourselves, but of ourselves for others, an awareness that perfects our love because it protects it.

Through our experiences we have come to realize that we are happy not when we are self-centered but when we are enjoying the companionship of others whom we love with our new-found love. We felt this love only when we finally forgot ourselves so completely that we identified our egos with the characters and experiences of other persons, only when we consummated our love with our pain at their pain. This selflessness reveals to us that loving is the "draining of oneself to be twice fulfilled."

"Find it fast—in the Yellow Pages!" Mr. O'Brien, Advisor; C. Balboni, R. Gill.

HERALD Business Board

The day of a Business Board member often does not end until the sun is setting: D. Chasse, R. Harrison, O. Ghezzi.

M. Pescetello and M. Grabowicz devote after school hours to tallying up the sales.

J. Dione reminds C. DeVere that rule number one is: "Co-editors divide the work evenly and never complain—well, hardly ever." (top left)

D. Colpitts asks R. Hamel if he remembers when money wasn't scarce or when times weren't hard. M. Downs and N. Hamblin watch. (center)

Eat, drink, and be merry, for today is our deadline. Left to right are N. Phillips, B. Uchneat, B. Hamblin, C. DeVere, M. Labbe, P. Babiarz. (bottom)

"But you just can't fit seven pictures on one page." Working (l. to r.): J. Sharp, V. Motes, P. Samsvick, J. Dione, Mr. Robinson, advisor.

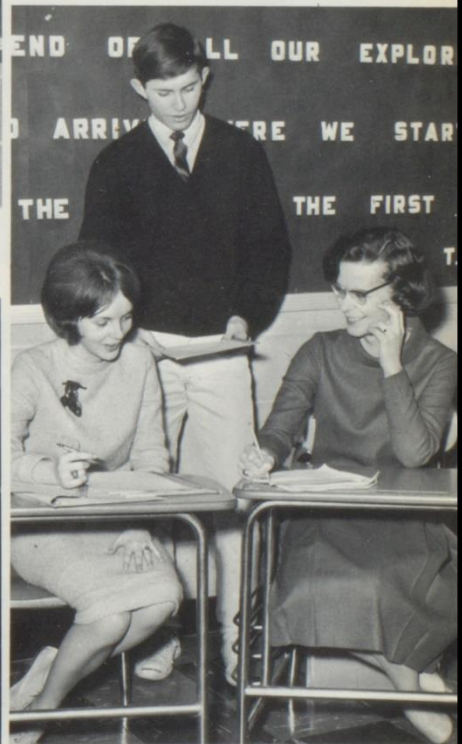

"How many mistakes can you make a minute?" asks P. Rader while D. Nelson, S. Rau, M. Rowe, and P. Poggi type triplicates.

J. Schepart exclaims, "Hey! We had gingersnaps last week," as G. Crouse, J. Tiesing, and V. Colapietro gather around the refreshment table.

"I wish all of our meetings were this hard," says the relaxing Herald members (l. to r.) R. Quagliaroli, L. Woolweaver, J. Blackburn, and D. Jakubowski at the annual Christmas Party.

R. Ritchie continues his proofreading while Miss Colby, advisor, discusses a rough draft with P. Daviduke.

Senior Activities

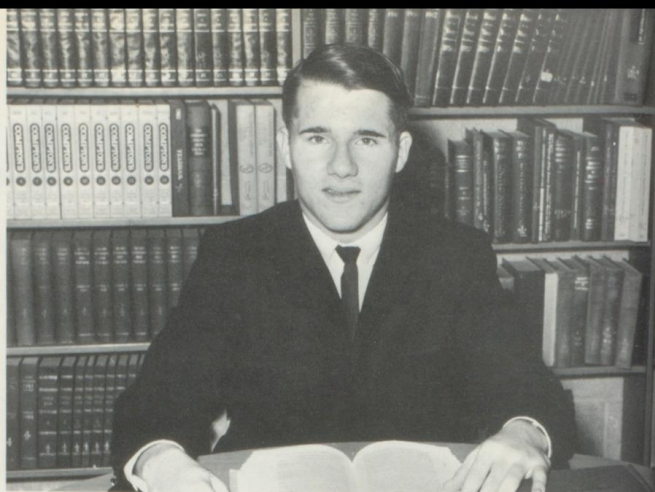

*Our pleasures and our discontents,
Are rounds by which we may ascend.*

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

51

Joan Schepart and Philip Rader vie for the microphone as they read their winning poems.

Philip Rader's high academic standing earned him both the Harvard and Yale Book Awards.

The D. A. R. named Constance DeVere the recipient of their Good Citizen Award. She also received the Rentschler Algebra Prize in her freshman year.

Gail Danyluk, as winner of the Betty Crocker Homemaker of the Year Award, poses in the Home Economics Room.

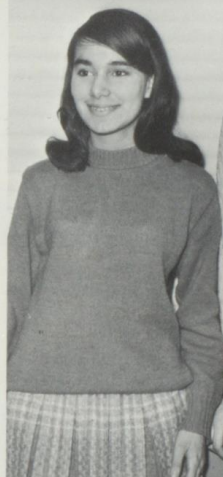

In her junior year Barbara Hamblin won the Connecticut Association of Women Deans and Counselors Award.

Janice Blackburn, Marie Pescetello, and Gail Danyluk have distinguished themselves by twice winning awards in the Hire the Handicapped Essay Contest.

During their four years of high school, Donald Nelson, Michael Labbe, Marie Pescetello, and Elizabeth Meehan have submitted award-winning science fair projects.

For their superior craftsmanship, John Kraft, Kenneth O'Brien, and Robert Pyznar have received prizes in the annual Windsor Locks High School Industrial Arts Fair.

The class of '66 chose Elaine Swede and Bobby Devlin as Best Dressed in their class.

Eva Clayton and Donald Raggio, never at a loss for words, are Most Talkative.

Who could ever forget the antics of Sandy Duncan and Willie Krupka, the Class Jesters?

Who

Most Popular in the senior class are John Lingua, Betty Swede, and Bruce Frankland.

Anne Jackson and Larry Woolweaver are Most Athletic because of their many achievements in the field of sports.

Who

Danny Sullivan and Diane Jakubowski, the Class Sweethearts, are an inseparable pair.

Connie DeVere and Phil Rader are Most Likely to Succeed because of their outstanding academic achievements.

Best Looking in the eyes of their classmates are Patti Poggi and Vito Colapietro.

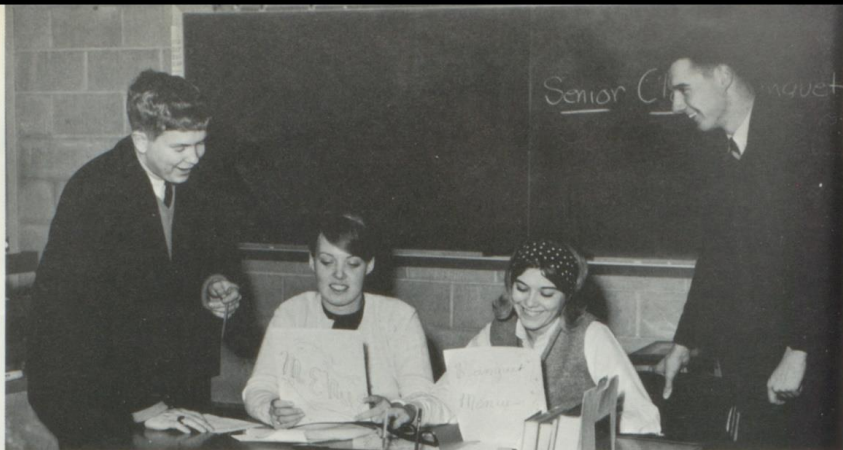

Priscilla Samsvick and Gary Gallagher, Most Argumentative, will long be remembered for the many arguments in which they participated.

Martha Rowe and David Farr are Most Versatile because of their varied interests and talents.

Senior Executive Board

B. Frankland, J. Tiesing, P. Poggi, and L. Woolweaver discuss the prices and selections for the senior class banquet.

Mr. Corcoran, advisor, V. Colapietro, and B. Hamblin watch as M. Labbe demonstrates some dance steps.

B. Swede and N. Nussbaum flood B. Frankland with illustrations of their choice for the class flower.

L. Woolweaver and D. Ollari show two of the choices for class motto to P. Poggi, S. Cooney, and J. Tiesing, who will, as homeroom representatives, vote for one of the selections.

Magazine Sale

J. Blackburn, whose name was drawn from a hat by the Senior Executive Board, is this year's recipient of the mascot.

Mr. Corcoran, advisor, A. Jackson, and B. Frankland worked many late hours preparing the sales reports.

P. Rader, D. Nelson, M. Tenerowicz, and D. Ollari are the winners of this year's prizes: a flash camera, a transistor radio, a tape-recorder, and a three-piece set of luggage. E. Clayton (not present) won a record player.

The New York trip winners are (l. to r.) A. Jackson, D. Gilbert, H. Luc, P. Bellerose, D. Raggio, C. Armistage, and M. Roche.

R. Quagliaroli, P. Samsvick, M. Rowe, H. Johnson, and L. Miner listen to Mr. Bradley, director, explain the action of Act II.

The Senior Class Play

BOYS AND GHOULS TOGETHER

by David Rogers

Performances on March 26 and April 2
at 8:00 P.M.

Under the direction of Mr. Bradley

J. Tiesing, like all other actresses, spends many hours in the dressing room putting on makeup and costumes.

S. Duncan caresses her pet alligator, Queenie.

M. Rowe and J. Dione swoon over H. Johnson in rehearsing the "triangle" segment of the play.

L. Miner and P. Samsvick engage in a strangle embrace.

Junior Prom

Members of the Class of 1966 walk arm in arm in the Grand March.

Moments after the crowning, the queen, P. Poggi, and her court, E. Swede, A. Jackson, and C. DeVere stand in front of the mural.

The Queen: Patricia Poggi

The chairmen of the Prom planning committees, B. Frankland, C. DeVere, J. Dione, and J. Ripolone, take pride in their work.

Classes

Instruction increases inborn worth, and right discipline strengthens the heart

Quintus Horatius Flaccus

Two students are participating in a driver education test which detects minor physical defects.

During the junior year the school's guidance counselors talk to students about their plans for future education.

This is another phase of the driver education program which measures night blindness.

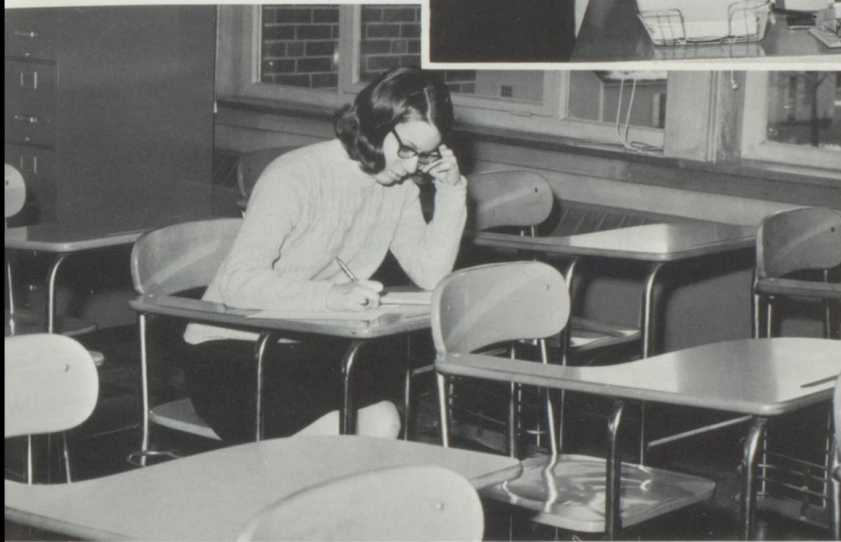

Juniors average the results of their examinations.

It is usually a joyous occasion when juniors receive their class rings, but it seems that one of them has a slight problem.

Students must take time to prepare for the many tests which are taken during the junior year.

School spirit is displayed by three sophomores buying tickets to a basketball game.

Entertainment at the Sophomore Social was provided by a local band, "The Locksmen." Members are (l. to r.) R. Flick, D. Harvey, B. Woodhouse, W. Powers, L. Kemp, and K. Duval.

Sports

All glory comes from daring to begin.

Cross Country

Captain and top runner
R. Gray was a major contributor to the team's 6-1 record.

The cross country team finished well in a field of thirty-six. A bright future seems certain, since there are five sophomores on the team.

Cheerleaders

School spirit has helped lead our boys to victory.

Senior togetherness: L. Woolweaver, D. Lee, G. Gallagher, G. Senia pose with cheerleaders M. Rowe, A. Jackson (Co-Capt.), P. Poggi (Co-Capt.).

Let's see who can stamp the hardest!

She did say jump, didn't she?

Basketball

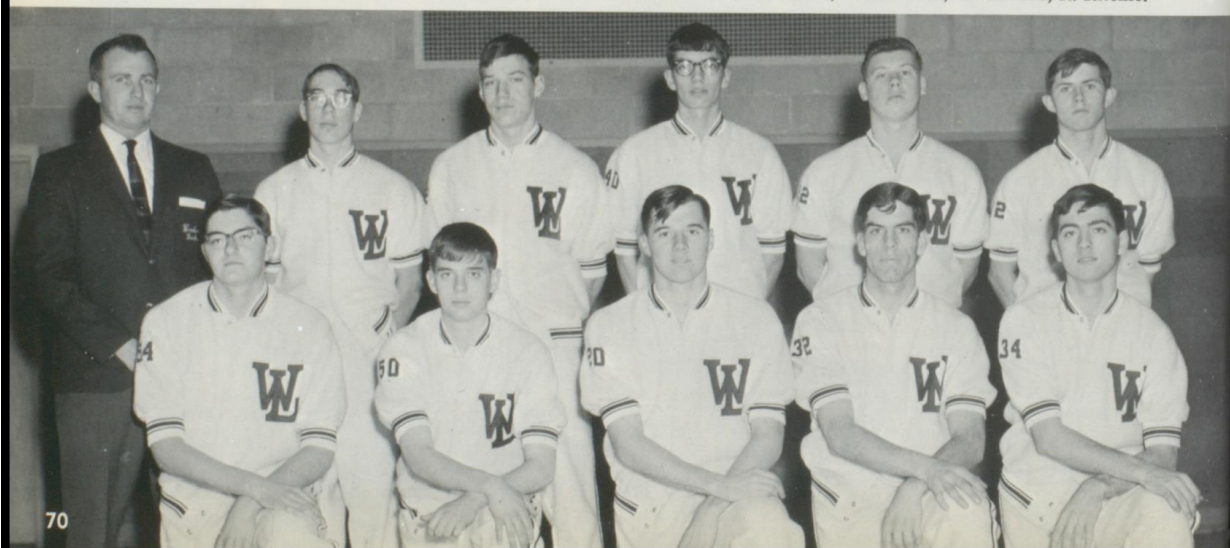

D. Lee (left) takes advantage of a foul and a one-and-one situation.

L. Woolweaver (top right) gets off a fifteen-foot jump shot in a first half action.

G. Gallagher (below) pulls down a big rebound.

Clubs

From the end spring new beginnings.

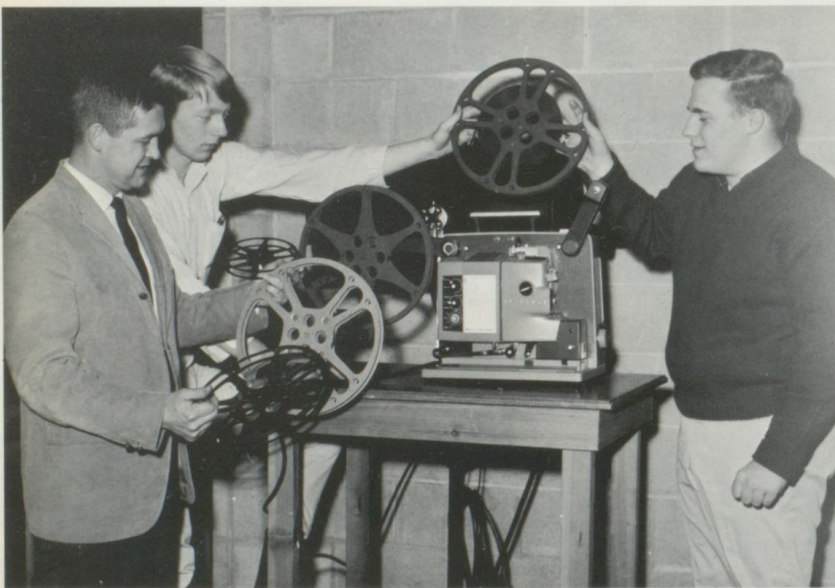

Pliny the Elder

Audio- Visual Aids

"I hope they don't explode," says H. Nash as J. Kadlubowski and D. Farr set up the spotlights for the Teachers' Play.

D. Ollari checks the progress of R. Chicoine and J. Barile as they light the stage for a school assembly.

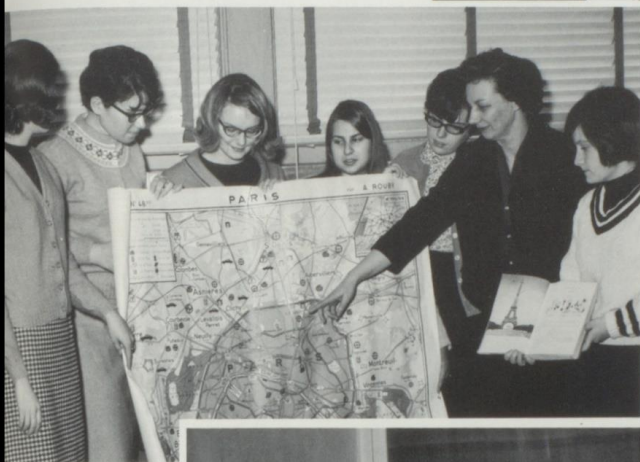

R. Smith and G. Allshouse prepare the projector as Mr. Randall, advisor, chooses the next movie.

"Let's hope we don't get any feedback," says W. Rampelli (right) as R. D'Agostino and G. Allshouse adjust the public address system.

Home Economics Club

Members of the Home Economics Club planning spring outfits are (l. to r.) N. Corsaro, P. Gill, M. Arno, M. Smith, Miss Christensen, advisor, and J. Coffin.

French Club

"The Eiffel Tower is located near here," explains Mrs. Cliff, French Club advisor, to D. Colpitts, J. Schepart, N. Phillips, M. Scanlon, K. Dunbar, and J. Hickey.

Mr. Port, advisor, with P. Gunning, C. Kidwell, K. Dunbar, R. Harrison, M. Taylor, A. Ingari, and J. Hickey prepares for a trip to a French restaurant.

Art Club

Final touches are placed on entries for the Hartford Scholastic Art Contest by Mrs. Krasinski, art teacher at the Junior High School, N. Phillips, and M. Combs. Other participants are C. Armitage, L. Bilodeau, R. Chadwick, C. Putala, and E. Nash.

Biology Club

The club officers—B. Evans, Treas.; J. Sabine, Sec.; C. Angilly, Pres.—and Mr. Widmer, advisor, plan the club's meeting for the following week.

Biology Club members (l. to r.) S. Wassell, P. Blevins, C. Angilly, C. Sancomb, D. Jakubowski, S. Manocchio, and M. Roche look on as Mr. Luke, advisor, demonstrates over the hotplate the preparation of bacteria cultures.

Mr. Luke prepares a permanent slide as (l. to r.) W. Coakley, J. Viera, H. Vanderbilt, L. Baron, J. Taylor, and D. Cousineau observe.

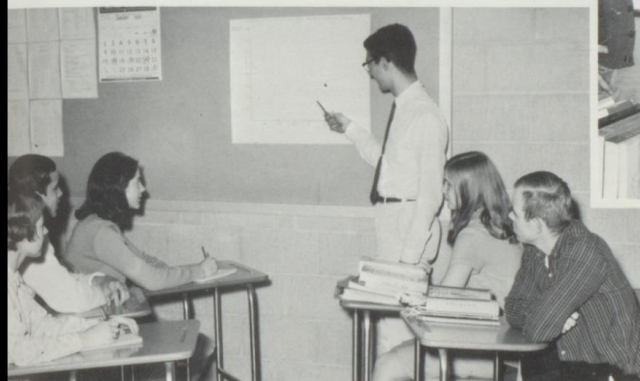

Mathematics Club

Mathematics Club students use geometric designs to beautify the halls. Pictured left to right are Mrs. Oates, advisor; P. Rader, Treas.; C. DeVere, Vice-Pres.; E. Meehan; S. Rau; and D. Nelson, Program Coordinator.

"The chances of winning are 52 to 1," says Mr. Traverso, advisor. Coaching are (l. to r.) D. Raggio, J. Blackburn, E. Murkowicz, P. Babiarz, and S. Enz.

"Now is the time to buy," says D. Farr, Pres., pointing to the graph. Noting this are (l. to r.) L. Spiller, H. Johnson, G. Crouse, K. Tersavich, and E. Crapo.

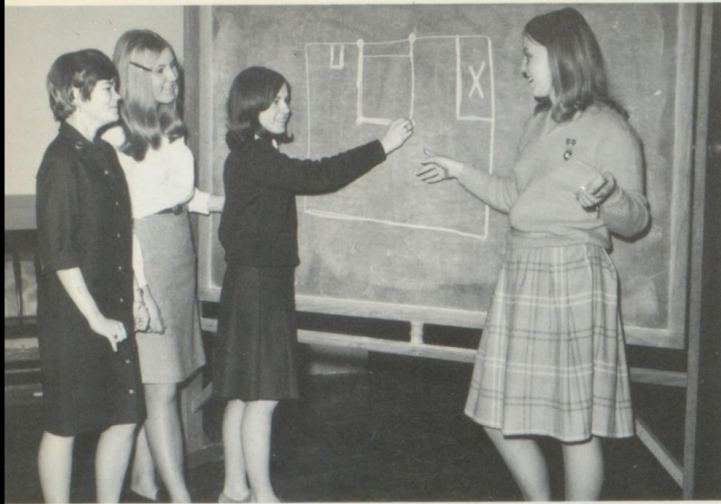

Photography Club

"Wonder what will happen if I push this lever?" says N. Malo to C. Putala.

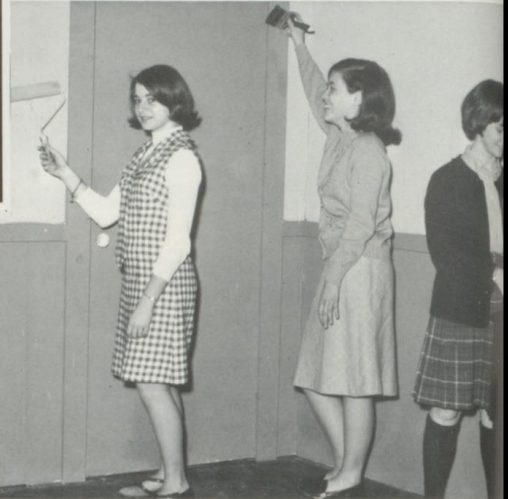

"It was worth all the effort," think (l. to r.) R. Price, N. Malo, G. Allshouse, C. Putale, and Mr. Anatasia, advisor.

The officers—S. Duncan, Treas.; J. Targo, Sec.; E. Swede, Pres.; J. Tiesing, Vice-Pres.—are setting up a layout for the play Sorry, Wrong Number by L. Fletcher.

Dramatic Club

L. Tobiasz, O. Ghezzi, M. Feron, and B. Cody work enthusiastically to make the color scheme on stage more presentable.

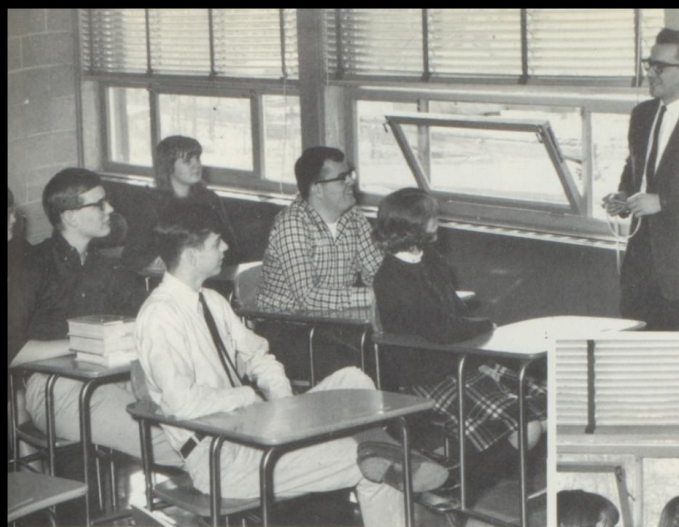

K. Lawsing, S. Ringo, C. Tersavich, and M. Giannuzzi realize that a little glue, some paint, and a great deal of determination will repair the worst props!

The position of the repaired props is changed many times before the members of the cast are satisfied. Left to right: D. Gatti, K. Bates, R. Tully, E. Swede, and L. Miner.

J. Dione, E. Merrigan, and J. Scott practice their lines for hours with the advisors, Mr. Bradley, Mr. Dowd, and Mrs. Kew (not present).

Political Science Club

DISCUSSION is the first and most essential ingredient of the Political Science Club. Standing: Mr. Giorgio, advisor. Front row: D. Ridel, R. Gill, W. Bourque. Back row: E. Hunt, J. Taylor, M. Grabowicz.

DECISION is the final step taken on a question under consideration. Standing: G. Gallagher. Sitting: D. Ridel, E. Hunt, K. Berard, R. Aber, and V. Colapietro.

DEBATE is the art of conducting a formal contest based on reasonable argument. P. Samsvick and V. Colapietro, senior members, discuss the Vietnam issue.

Library Assistants

"I wonder why we always end up doing the hard work?" asks C. Walsh of P. Montenieri.

Library Assistants K. Dunbar, M. Evtushek, and G. Godin spend study periods labeling new books. Miss Colby, Librarian, types catalog cards.

The band plays the school song as they march into the soccer pep rally before a crowd of two hundred enthusiastic students.

Band

Part of the woodwind section, R. Kingston, J. Scott, and M. Feron, rehearse for the holiday program.

"The Sound of Music." Top row (l. to r.): W. Moselsky, F. Merancy, B. Beaudry, C. Hagist; Middle row (l. to r.) T. Weatherbee, M. Pescetello, Mr. Bradley, advisor, B. Savolonis, R. Novakowski, P. Rader; Bottom row (l. to r.) E. Hale, R. Kingston, M. Feron, R. Aber.

J. Shea, a four year member, works to improve his style on the baritone horn.

Members of the Special Chorus practice a carol. Standing (l. to r.): G. Crouse, B. Hamblin, C. Kemp, C. Ewins, L. Barron, C. Balboni, D. Hammond, D. Gatti. Seated: M. Pescetello, C. Lose.

L. Tobiasz, G. Pescetello, P. Monteneri, M. Arno, G. Wills and S. Galo prepare to sing on stage.

The chorus presents a successful assembly, the culmination of long practice and co-operation

Wilohi

"Maybe if the duplicator is plugged in . . .," Mrs. Blair, advisor, seems to be asking, as J. Burk, C. Walsh, L. Feron, and A. Fortunato look on.

This is the third time articles were signed "Walter Winchell," remarks J. Burk to R. Ferrari, L. Bilodeau, K. Burke, and M. Camarco.

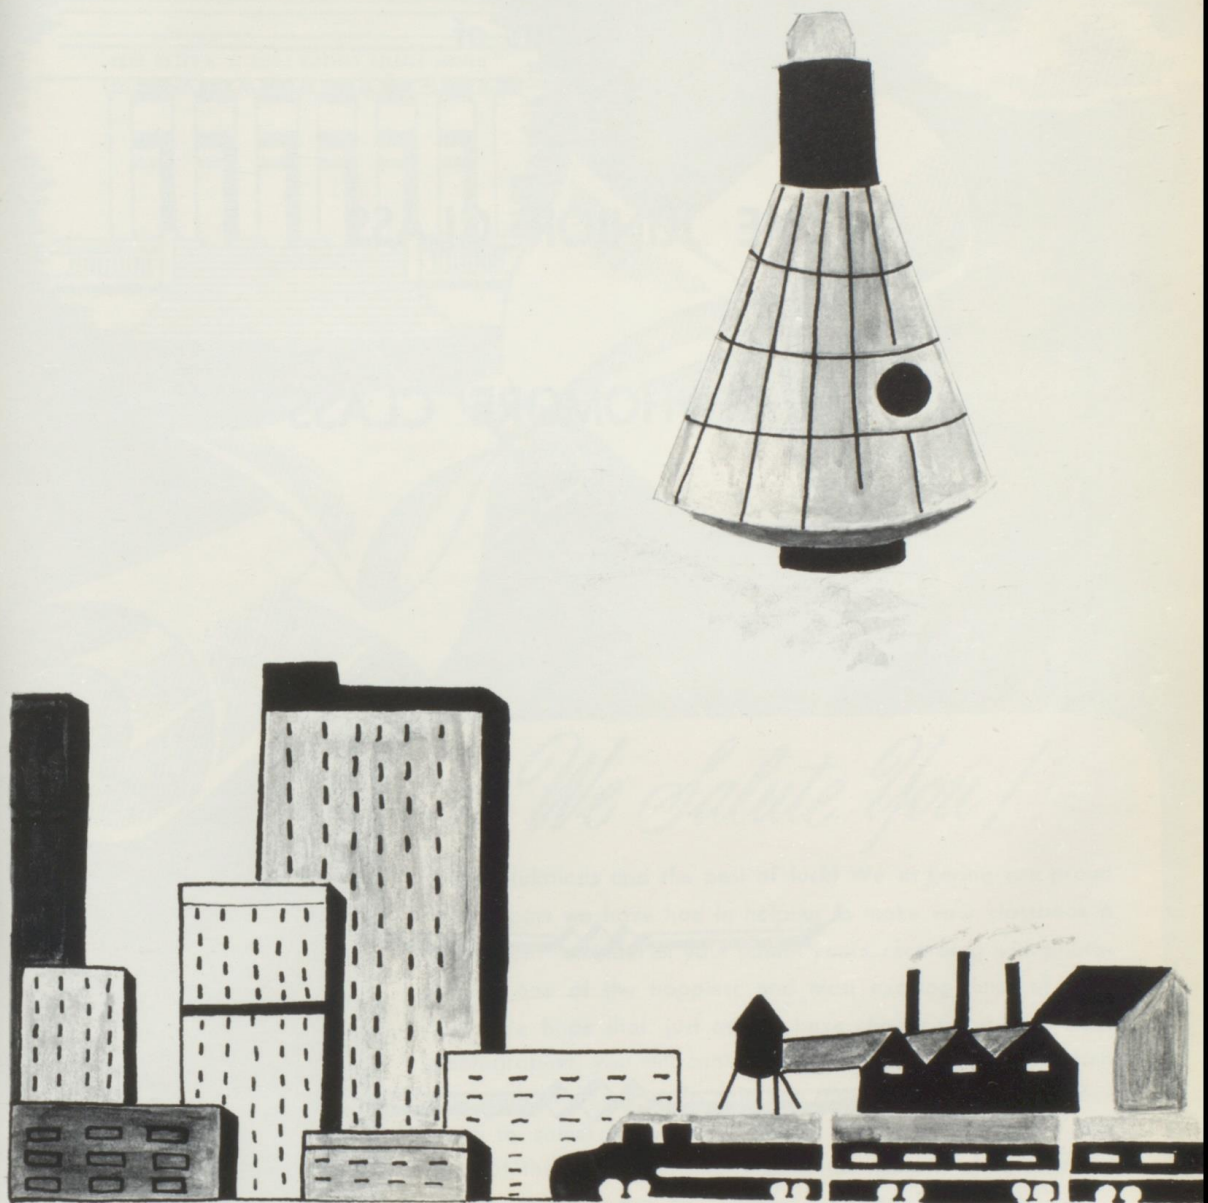

Future Nurses Club

Mrs. Magnani, advisor, shows C. Bellingeri, L. Sheldon, and C. Delpivo the correct way to make a bed.
